

OCTOBER 14, 2011
CANTERBURY EPISCOPAL CHAPEL

Net Impact and Canterbury Episcopal Church bring you the 2011 Tuscaloosa Food Summit October 14, 2011 Canterbury Student Center 9am-4 pm

The Food Summit is a one day event bringing together community leaders to discuss the complex issues relating to how we make, distribute and eat our food. It seeks to explore the consequences of the modern food system and discuss ways to improve it. The Food Summit will consist of 4 hour and half panels. It will take place at the Student Center at Canterbury Episcopal Church from 9 am to 4 PM. Admission is free. Lunch will be provided to the first 100 attendees. Email mdlawrence@crimson.ua.edu for more information.

- 9:00 AM - Food Banks, Food Security, and Food Deserts
Karen Thompson of Temporary Emergency Services, Henry Lipsey of the West Alabama Food Bank, Dean of Social Work University of Alabama Lucinda Roff, and others
- 10:30 AM - - The Role of Faith Based Initiatives in Sustainable Food
Charlie Griffin formerly of Jones Valley Urban Farm, Charlie Hunter currently of Jones Valley Urban Farm, Lindsey Mullen new College, and others
- 12:00 Pm - Lunch and Lunch Topic How can business be part of the solution?
(lunch topic) - A sustainable food supply chain, The Stonyfield Story, This will be a presentation given by the CEO of Stonyfield on video
- 1:00 PM - Community Gardens, CSA's, Farmers Markets, and Urban Agriculture
- Andy Grace of Druid City Garden Project, Andrea Mabry from Homegrown Alabama, Margaret Ann Toohey from Snow's Bend, Scott Muhammad of SEED
- 2:30 PM - The Complete Cost of Food (a discussion of the economics, social implications, health consequences, and environmental impact of eating from the modern food supply chain) Edwin Marty Founder of Jones Valley Urban Farm, Kristina Scott the Executive Director Alabama Poverty Project, and Kathryn Strickland of the North Alabama Food Bank, and others

Look for us on Facebook by searching for Tuscaloosa Food Summit